U.S. Reported Ready On Iran Dispute Plan ... Program Backed With $100 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Well informed sources said Tuesday the United States is willing to put up 100 million dollars to back a plan for settling the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

These officials reported the American government is ready to advance as much as 100 million into Iran's treasury as emergency financial aid if Iran and Great Britain agree to cooperate in ending their long and bitter quarrel over nationalization of British oil properties in Iran.

The money would be used to help restore Iran's financial equilibrium. The strategic Middle Eastern country has been losing more than five million dollars a month in oil revenues since the British closed down their refineries and pulled out.

It is reported that President Truman has instructed Secretary of State Acheson to start exploratory discussions for a "voluntary agreement" between American oil interests and the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company for a resumption of the flow of oil from Iran.

Acheson was said to have taken up the question with Anthony Eden, the British foreign secretary, at the conference of North Atlantic Treaty nations in Paris. British co-operation apparently is as important as Iran's acquiescence if the plan is to succeed.

It is reported that this is the broad outline of the plan:

The United States would advance up to 100 million dollars to help Mossadeq's government pay civil servants and meet other pressing obligations which now threaten the stability of the country. Some of the money would be used to help restore the huge Abadan refinery and repair harbor facilities along the Persian Gulf.

Then an international oil combine made up of four or possibly five major American oil companies would join Anglo-Iranian and the Royal Dutch Shell Company in operating Iran's oil industry under a contract with the Iranian government.

Yule Mailing Slightly Short Of '51 Volume

Although the Lincoln Post Office expects its Christmas mail this year to shatter all previous records, the volume is currently running "slightly short of last year."

This is because there are "two extra mailings until Christmas," or as Superintendent of Mails Gerald Jones explains:

"Christmas will fall on Thursday this year, but was on Tuesday last year. The December volume to date is slightly behind last year's volume for a comparable date."

Reflecting this trend was the volume on Saturday which was far below that anticipated, but which jumped to 72,462 pounds of outgoing parcels on Monday to outdistance by 4,000 pounds the best day of the 1951 Yuletide run.

'Fireworks' Lacking At First Hearing On Proposed Viaduct

By MARILYN KIRKEBY
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners' public hearing on the O Street viaduct proposed new construction Tuesday, which was expected to produce some fiery discussions, resembled a well-mannered quiz program with the public "stumping the experts" with technical questions.

O Street businessmen, whose retail stores front on O between 9th and 7th streets, provided the nearest thing to fireworks at the meeting with their formal protests against extending the viaduct structure to 9th street. The merchants indicated that they would expect damages to be paid for the "decrease in their property values and the hampering of business" if the viaduct is extended.

No Estimates

None of the spokesmen were able to give the commissioners any estimate of damages. The commissioners, on the other hand, were unable to give the merchants any specific plan on how to collect damages.

Traffic Problem

The traffic problem was raised in a formal letter of protest to the proposed construction by O street businessmen. "The proposed new viaduct, when extended to 9th street, will impose serious traffic hazards due to 'dumping' statewide and local automobiles and heavy truck traffic from the west, at the end of a viaduct which will terminate within the heavily congested area of the main business traffic street of the city," the letter stated.

No Closing Hours For Night Spots On New Year's Eve

Lancaster County residents will get a chance to party to their hearts' content on New Year's Eve. By action of the Board of Commissioners, there will be no closing hours for roadhouses, dives and dance spots, and dance halls on that date.

Chauncey E. Barney, chairman of the board, cast the dissenting vote.

Other action taken by the board included voting to give Alvin "Pat" Davis, former manager of the County Poor Farm, a letter of recommendation and commendation for his work for the county.

The commissioners formally accepted a complete set of Nebraska statute books, inclusive of 1951, from District Judge J. H. Broadbent.

Ike To Make No GOP Floor Leader Choice

NEW YORK (INS)—Sen. Carl Vinson (R-Kan) one of Gen. Eisenhower's top advisors, said Tuesday the President-elect will take no part in the selection of a Republican floor leader in the Senate.

The lawyers recommended that disloyal Americans in the U.N. be fired and any other U.N. employees, whether Americans or not, be dismissed if they were guilty of subversive activities of espionage against the U.S.

The State Department's screening of American personnel hired on the U.N. staff was subject to hot criticism recently in a presentation from a special federal grand jury in New York. The State Department replied that it had warned the U.N. in a number of cases.

He was a staff member of Bryan Memorial, Lincoln General and St. Elizabeth Hospital where he served as chief of staff from 1928 to 1935.

Dr. Lehnhoff was past president of the Lancaster County Medical Society, Nebraska State Medical Society (1926-27), Missouri Valley Medical Society (1923-1924), and National Federation of Secretaries of Examining Boards (1935).

McGranery Asked To Design Personnel Guarantee Program

3 Federal Agencies To Collaborate In Planning Group

NEW YORK (AP)—President Truman has ordered that a plan be drawn to provide a maximum guarantee that disloyal Americans are not employed by the United Nations. Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery announced Tuesday night.

Thus far 29 Americans have been dismissed from the U.N. as a result of the Communist investigation, largely as a result of refusing to answer questions as to whether they ever had Communist affiliations.

There has been some criticism of Lie within the U.N. for advancing that he would handle subversive cases on the basis of the recommendation by the panel.

McGranery told newsmen Truman had ordered the State and Justice Departments and the Civil Service Commission to collaborate in working out the plan.

The attorney general said Truman issued the directive as a result of the recommendations made to U.N. Secretary General Trygve Lie by a panel of three international lawyers, but gave no other details.

The lawyers recommended that disloyal Americans in the U.N. be fired and any other U.N. employees, whether Americans or not, be dismissed if they were guilty of subversive activities of espionage against the U.S.

The State Department's screening of American personnel hired on the U.N. staff was subject to hot criticism recently in a presentation from a special federal grand jury in New York. The State Department replied that it had warned the U.N. in a number of cases.

Meanwhile, at the U.N. Tuesday

India and Canada asked Lie to go under the U.N. Charter and staff slow on firing U.N. staff workers regulations.

McGranery made his announcement to newsmen in a brief interview, then returned to Washington.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (INS)

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), Tuesday night welcomed U.S. Attorney-General McGranery's announcement that President Truman has called for federal action to help rid the U.N. of disloyal Americans.

The American delegate to U.N. declared in a statement that "whatever machinery is worked out" as a result of the presidential directive will be "a step in the right direction."

Less Money Is Asked By Assistance Department

Final Budget Session Told $6,656,298 Decrease Due To Drop In Case Loads

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

Last of the hearings conducted jointly by Gov. Val Peterson and Gov.-elect Robert Crosby on recommendations of the various departments on the amount of funds needed for the next biennium was held Tuesday night and from the information received they will make their recommendations to the Legislature.

Child welfare asked the only increase in funds having received $466,000 at the last session. They will also receive an increase in cash funds from $18,443 to $30,172 due to a trust fund for aid of children.

Federal funds are estimated at $19,430,822 for salaries and maintenance of assistance as compared with the present $22,813,858. The funds for crippled children are expected to be reduced to $240,056 from the $242,118 now received.

Accountants of the department were closely questioned as to whether the amount asked was adequate and into reasons the reduction was possible. The old age assistance funds were based on an estimated average case load of 20,000. There are presently on the rolls 20,191.

Steady Decline

Director Neil Vandemoer pointed out that there has been a steady decline in the number receiving assistance with the total falling 3,000 in the past two years. He attributed this to the increased payments of old age and survivors insurance and more strict enforcement by counties of the law on relatives' responsibility.

Based on experience it was estimated that the average grants would increase from the present $54 monthly to $58 by the end of the biennium.

Named to the board of trustees for a two-year term was Dr. E. Burkett Reed. Dr. Frederick D. Coleman was elected to a one-year term.

Prior to the annual election, held at the Smith-Dorsey Co. auditorium, annual reports on all phases of the group's activities were heard.

According to the library committee, approximately $300 in periodicals are subscribed to annually by the Society and are on file at the University of Nebraska Love Library. The periodicals are for use of Society members, and University students and faculty.

Following the business meeting, the group were guests of Dr. Tanner at a social hour at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Business indicated that they would expect damages to be paid for the "decrease in their property values and the hampering of business" if the viaduct is extended.

According to Ress, the new viaduct could not end at 8th street as it does now. Ress explained that to build a viaduct ending at 8th, it would necessitate an eight percent grade from the top level of the structure to the street. Federal highway agencies will not approve a plan where the grade is more than five percent.

Carlson's statement after meeting with the general ruled out the possibility that the Eisenhower administration would object to the choice of Sen. Taft (R-O) to the key post.

Both Taft and Sen. Bridges (R-NH), the present minority leader, have indicated interest in the job of floor leader.

Carlson said that if the Republican leadership in the upper chamber decides Taft is the man for the job he will back the Ohioan who lost the presidential nomination to Eisenhower.

When asked why the new viaduct will cost approximately $1,500,000 and will be completed in mid-summer, 1954, the viaduct itself will be a four-lane divided structure with four-foot sidewalks on either side.

According to the general, the new viaduct will be built at a cost of $1,500,000 and will be completed in mid-summer, 1954.

Final hearing was on the $36,199,647 request of the assistance department, one of the few to make substantial reductions from the amount asked two years ago when they were appropriated $43,575,945.

Congress Views—

Foreign Aid Cut Popular

90 Per Cent Of Solons Want Assistance Pared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Incoming Congressmen are sounding a heavy chorus of calls to cut United States foreign aid programs.

In an Associated Press survey, 90 per cent of Senators and Representatives willing to take a stand wanted to reduce American assistance to free world allies in the battle against communism.

Some protested hotly against what they called waste and poor results in the outlaying of $7 billion dollars during the past 12 years. Some others defended it as providing the most defense per dollar.

Suggestions

Suggestions included (1) a complete new study to appraise the whole program, (2) making loans instead of outright grants, (3) a shift in emphasis from Europe to the Middle and Far East, (4) doing away with economic aid grants but keeping military assistance and the Point Four program of technical know-how to help backward nations help themselves.

The almost solid lineup for economy in foreign aid may confront President-elect Eisenhower with one of his first and toughest problems in dealing with the Republican-controlled congress.

Only six months ago Eisenhower was commander of mutual security forces in Europe. He said then that cuts below $6,900,000,000 in foreign aid appropriations this fiscal year ending June 30 might "endanger the proposed military buildup . . . which I consider essential in the interest of U.S. security."

After bitter battles, Congress finally appropriated six billion for the year. President Truman's budget had asked for eight billion. Counting funds left over from previous years, actual spending this year may run from six to seven billion.

Extension of the aid program is one of the first items on the agenda for the new Congress, convening Jan. 3. And it's sure to kick up a big debate.

Funds Authorized For New Building At Kearney State

The board of state officials authorized to control expenditures from the special building fund, Tuesday "unfroze" $700,000 for construction of a vocational arts building at the Kearney Teachers college.

E. Albin Larson, secretary of the normal board, appeared before the committee to present the request. He explained that the preliminary plans have been approved by the normal board.

Present training of teachers of these subjects, he said, is being conducted in an "old bin," and in basement rooms "inadequately lighted and ventilated."

Facilities now being used in training teachers of home economics, he explained, will be converted to other needed classrooms and laboratories.

In the vocational arts building, Larson said, will be housed facilities for training teachers to teach home economics, commerce and business administration, wood and metal working and graphic arts.

Good Roads Group Talk Highway Plan With Aitken, Crosby

Officers of the Nebraska Good Roads Association met with State Engineer Harold Aitken and Governor Robert Crosby Tuesday to discuss Nebraska's highway outlook.

Louis Hines, Lincoln, association president, said the group wished to find out from Crosby and Aitken "what we can do to help" get a good highway program for Nebraska.

He explained the association was not advocating any specific program, but predicted it would help work out a program during the legislative session.

The group included Harry Byrne, Omaha; Harry F. Russell, Hastings; Oliver Stevenson, Nebraska City; Charles F. Adams, Aurora; Orville Brandstetter, Wayne; Fay Wood, Seward; Allen Davison, Beatrice; and A. C. Witter, Kearney.

All are directors or executive committee members in the association.

Rietfors Named Interim Public Welfare Director

John Rietfors will direct the activities of Lancaster County Department of Public Welfare until such time as a new director is named.

Russell Brehm, chairman of the Lancaster County Public Welfare Committee, said there "is no necessity for appointing an acting director at this time."

The committee will meet on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 23, in regular session. Brehm indicated that the committee would not be ready to name a new director at that meeting.

Leroy Holtberg, director of the Department of Public Welfare for the past 14 years, died Friday.

Child Burns Closet; Didn't Care For Dress

O M A H A (AP) — John Riley, Omaha, reports that his five-year-old son, Johnny, didn't like a dress worn to church by his four-year-old sister, Janice. So the boy set fire Monday to the bedroom clothes closet.

The fire damaged the bedroom and burned through to the attic before firemen could douse it.

NEW OFFICERS—The Lancaster County Medical Society has named three officers and two trustees for the coming year. They are left to right: Dr. E. Burkett Reed, trustee for two years; Dr. Frederick

D. Coleman, trustee for one year; Dr. John A. Brown, re-elected secretary-treasurer; Dr. Everett E. Angle, president-elect, and Dr. Frank H. Tanner, president. (Star Photo.)

Legion Committee Report Says Use Of IPR Book 'Questionable'

Hastings Bid For Bryan Statue Brings A Protest

The controversy aroused by the American Legion questioning of a University of Nebraska text has brought out an interim report of the local Legion committee investigating the book and a scorching statement by the editor of the University's student newspaper.

The Legion committee's report concurred in the view that use of the book, "State of Asia," a publication sponsored by the Institute of Pacific Relations, is "questionable."

The committee cited as evidence quotations from the magazine U. S. News and World Report supposedly quoting from a report of a judicial subcommittee of the U. S. Senate. The magazine, according to the Legion, said the IPR "has not maintained the character of an objective, scholarly and research organization."

DiSalle Named To Economic Stabilizer Job

WASHINGTON (INS) — President Truman Tuesday named former Price Chief Michael V. DiSalle to succeed Roger L. Putnam as economic stabilizer.

The Legion committee defended the "right of the Legion or of any citizen to examine and evaluate the materials taught to our children. We do this not as expert educators, but as private and loyal Americans."

They also asserted that the conclusions of the Senate group should not be ignored, and said a re-evaluation should be undertaken "by and through the proper authorities."

Ruth Raymond, editor of the Daily Nebraskan, charged that Senator-Elect Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff was furthering his own "personal and political ambition" in urging an investigation of the University of Nebraska with regard to Communism.

She said: "I am greatly disturbed that the entire feeling of antipathy toward the universities in general and the University of Nebraska in particular has been made verbally official" through Carpenter's statements.

"Carpenter obviously feels," she said, "that the FBI and other qualified agencies are not capable of carrying on their work in ferreting out those who seek to destroy our government."

"This new Republican committed an error when he suggested that a loyalty oath be required

Certification, Taxes Talked By Educators

Teacher certificates, motor vehicle taxation and revenue and school redistricting were the major subjects covered by the Nebraska State School Boards Association legislative committee meeting Tuesday in Lincoln.

One of the resolutions, which will be presented to the association for consideration at its convention Jan. 12-13, recommends that "the state discontinue granting third grade elementary certificates to normal trainees and to students completing 12-hour college programs."

Legislation sought would "require all teachers to have a minimum of two years college training by the school year 1956-57 and four years college training by the school year 1960-61."

Time Change Urged

The committee also suggested that motor vehicle taxes be collected when the licenses are issued, instead of at a specified time each year.

The resolution reads: "That the assessed valuation of motor vehicles be made uniform over the state, the mill levy to be whatever is in force in the district where the owner resides, to be paid when the license certificate is issued, with new or transfer certificates being taxed in proportion to the remainder of the calendar year."

Opposition to any loss of revenue to school districts through changes in the motor vehicle taxation method was expressed in a second resolution that "the school district's share of any graduated tax on motor vehicles be that part represented by the mill levy of the district on the other property applied to the total value each year of all motor vehicles in the district."

Re-Districting

Also urged was legislation strengthening the school re-districting program. No specific recommendations were made.

Discussed without recommendations were high school tuition and financial support to schools. The board indicated that the tuition should be increased to reflect current costs.

A severance tax on oil, gas and minerals was recommended and the committee, under the chairmanship of H. C. Clapp of McCook, commanded a study being made by the Nebraska School Activities Association as to "controlling the number of athletic activities per week in which a student may engage." Presently, the number is unlimited.

Frank Gorman of Omaha is the association's executive secretary.

Sitting on the all-day meeting were representatives of the Nebraska State Education Association and Parent-Teacher Association.

Methodist Evangelism, Missionary Program Set

Centennial Observance

An intensive program of evangelism and missionary work has been outlined for the next four years by the planning conference of the Methodist Church.

Meeting at Trinity Methodist church in Lincoln, the state leaders adopted also a number of building plans.

Conference members took note of the fact that more than 2,000 youths attended the last camp meeting at Camp Comeau near Cozad. Over $45,000 has been expended at the camp.

The group plans to spend about $25,000 at another camp now in the construction stage at Chadron. A third youth camp will be established somewhere in eastern Nebraska at a later date.

Help For New Churches

Other fund raising activities to be continued during the next four years include contributions to new churches in Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island and needy areas of the state where there is now no church or where the congregation has disbanded.

More than $6,500 in contributions to the Oklahoma Indian Mission was reported and a vote given to continuation of that drive.

Financial help will also continue to the Rio Grande conference and the missionary work in East Africa being carried on by the Rev. Max V. Kemling of Grant, a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan at Lincoln.

Another report showed the conference was within $2,200 of the $100,000 goal for the new Borneo memorial school. The school will be a memorial to Gerald V. Summers, former Wesleyan graduate who died following imprisonment in a Japanese prison camp.

Pension Report

The Rev. Leonard A. Fishel of Omaha, director of the reserve pension campaign, reported that his project now has $563,000 pledged toward the $750,000 goal. The conference approved hiring of a professional money raising group to complete the pension campaign as soon as possible.

In all, the conference agreed upon a 35 per cent increase in missionary work during the next four years.

Plans were also laid for an extensive evangelism drive to begin in October of 1953. The drive will be climaxed with a two weeks campaign by all 450 Methodist churches in the state.

Services At Hildreth For Mrs. Fred Soker

HILDRETH, Neb.—Funeral services for Mrs. Fred Soker, 77, a director of the State Bank of Hildreth, will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at St. Peter's Lutheran Church. She died in an Omaha hospital after a long illness.

Born in Illinois, she came to Franklin County, Nebraska, many years ago. Her husband was associated with the Hildreth bank for many years.

Surviving are three daughters, Bertha of Madura, Calif.; Tillie of Lincoln and Mrs. Alice Scherer of Los Angeles; and four sons, George of Hildreth, Randolph of Los Angeles, Rev. Leland of Albuquerque, N. Mex., and Herbert of Toledo, O.

Seal Sale Total Now At $14,520

With one week remaining until Christmas, the Christmas Seal sale reached $14,520 Wednesday at 79 per cent of the total $18,500 raised last year for the Lancaster County Tuberculosis Association, Dr. C. V. Calhoun, president, announced.

The Christmas Seal educational and fund raising campaign, sole support of the Association and its tuberculosis control program, has resulted in an increased attendance at the Christmas seal Chest X-ray Survey Center since Nov. 17 when the campaign began," Dr. Calhoun reports.

He said the X-ray survey screens out from the apparently healthy population unknown tuberculosis cases. It is possible to have the disease without knowing it, he added.

Plans were also laid for an extensive evangelism drive to begin in October of 1953. The drive will be climaxed with a two weeks campaign by all 450 Methodist churches in the state.

In all, the conference agreed upon a 35 per cent increase in missionary work during the next four years.

Age Of The 'J'iner'

This is, or was, the age of the "J'iner." One development of the last 25 years is that organizations of a nationwide scope came into existence; others expanded their membership. If a man did not belong to at least five or six organizations, he ran a distinct risk of being classified as anti-social. Now most of these organizations filled some need, most of them were sound, and most of them have made a contribution to the country.

It is not fully clear from an 8-to-0 decision of the United States Supreme Court, with Justices Black and Frankfurter writing concurring opinions, exactly what the court had in mind in striking down Oklahoma's loyalty oath law. In the absence of the full opinion of the court, it is difficult to determine how far-reaching its decision is. The news stories said simply that the Oklahoma loyalty oath law was unconstitutional because it penalizes persons who might have joined subversive organizations (or organizations listed as being subversive) innocently. That could be another way of saying the individual was denied the benefit of a doubt.

The court's main opinion said this:

"Indiscriminate classification of innocent knowing activity must fall as an assertion of arbitrary power. The oath offends due process."

In a personal sense, the editor has no objection to a loyalty oath. There is a great deal of fuss over the oath that is a waste of time. He would have no hesitation in signing one. But their effectiveness can be questioned. As has been pointed out on frequent occasions, a genuine Communist intent upon mischief would be among the first to attempt to hide his association by signing a loyalty oath. A real Communist is not going to be concerned greatly by adding concealment to his already established identity as an open enemy of America's way of life. The oath could defeat its own purpose by providing the Communist with "cover."

Nor in a personal sense are we too greatly concerned with the plight in which the incurable "J'iner" finds himself because of the irresistible impulse to join anything or everything that comes along. As a matter of sensible individual behavior and sound practice, it would appear that the prospective member of an organization is under some necessity of discovering what kind of an organization he is joining. It may add to the troubles of the organizer but it will spare the individual a headache. In this field, then, the best advice from here on out would seem to be to know what you are joining and to be governed accordingly. The Supreme Court summed it all up in these words:

Noting that membership alone in an organization determined disqualification from state employment, membership may be innocent. "A state servant may have joined the prescribed organization unaware of its activities and purposes. In recent years many completely loyal persons have severed organization ties after learning for the first time of the character of the groups to which they had belonged," the court said.

It may be a bit frivolous, but perhaps the moral of all this should be: "Know what you are joining before you join." And certainly a part of the moral of the court's decision would seem to be: "Let bygones be bygones instead of undertaking to establish bygones as evidence of guilt by association."

Sound Public Policy

We take it what the Lincoln City Council is undertaking to do in its discussion and action on water and sewage service in areas served by privately constructed facilities, beyond the corporate limits of Lincoln, is to lay down the rule that the profit motive should not enter into such extensions.

If that is the council's purpose, then it is apparent that it is on sound ground. Actually Lincoln's water system is publicly owned. It belongs to all the people. Service supplied either directly or indirectly through it should not be marked by instances of individual profit. Whatever surplus arises as a result of the water operation belongs to the City of Lincoln. The source of supply belongs to the people. Without that source of supply, any extension would be valueless.

The question is one that has not arisen previously, but in view of the rapid expansion of the residential areas and the importance of water itself, it is well that the council should consider and act upon policy at this time. This principle established is broader than any individual case and merely undertakes to set up a working rule.

50 Years From Kittyhawk

The flight of time and the march of progress is vividly portrayed in the fact that only 50 years ago today the Wright brothers, Wilbur and Orville, made their historic flight into space at Kittyhawk, North Carolina. Advances made in aviation since that day in 1902 are breathtaking, of such scope that a man would have been regarded as insane if he had predicted 50 years ago that in 1952 there would be planes traveling at speeds of more than 600 miles an hour.

Only five persons were on hand when 25-year-old Orville Wright made the first motor-powered flight in a heavier-than-air machine. He lay prone on the center panel as the plane rose into the air, to land 12 seconds later more than 120 feet from the point at which it left the ground. Three more flights were made the same day, the last one extending 59 seconds and covering more than 850 feet. Newspaper editors across the country were skeptical of the event, and only a very few newspapers carried accounts of the experiment.

The Wright brothers' success was the result of hard work that frequently appeared unrewarding. They experimented for six years before they found the way to make a machine carry man into the air. For centuries other men in other times had sought the secret held by the birds, and many persons perished trying to duplicate the feat of the winged creatures. The Wright brothers showed that man could make the machine do his work for him, as he has done so many times before and since.

The first flight in 1902 opened a new chapter in the history of mankind, for aviation as we know it today was born when the Wright brothers proved that they had been, after all, correct in their plans and dreams.

An Experiment In Culture

The Metropolitan Opera Company has had some notable "first nights" but none of them could equal the event late last week when televised opera was attempted for the first time. In what surely must have been one of the most significant cultural experiments in American history, the Met's performance of "Carmen" was televised to audiences in movie houses in 26 cities from coast to coast.

To see a Met opening is considered a great thrill to many lovers of fine opera, but the seating capacity of the Metropolitan Opera House is limited by its inevitable four walls. Television has succeeded in knocking down those walls, bringing 70,000 additional members to the Met audience last week—by far the largest seeing audience the Metropolitan has had in all its 69 eventful years. There is practically no limit to the size this audience can become, for when opera becomes more readily available it will unquestionably increase in popularity among persons who had never before had the opportunity to see the magnificent, dazzling spectacle that is opera at its best.

The first controlled—that is, sent only to theaters and not to the sets of persons sitting at home—televised opera was termed a great success by those who planned and arranged the event. It is not regarded as a substitute for holding down a seat at the Met itself. But it is the next best thing right now.

Young And Old Alike

Two stories on successive days out of Moscow indicate there is trouble among two groups of Soviet citizens—the young and the old. The exact state of the middle aged is open to speculation, but it is exceedingly likely that they could find considerable room for criticism if only they were allowed to speak their minds.

The first of the two dispatches reports that some of the people who live in the mountainous region of Dagestan in Southern Russia are looking back longingly on the days before the Communist party seized power. "Certain writers in this region," a secretary of the regional committee of the party in Dagestan complains, "have praised the works of a folklore which is alien to us." Furthermore, they have "extolled the manner of life in the days of the khans and beys."

This, needless to add, is an "anti-Marxist bourgeoisie nationalist conception."

On the other end of the age scale, another Communist writer complains that many Soviet young people today don't want to do dirty work or work with their hands. They dream of the day, the writer declares, when life will be a push-button affair and machines will do all the dirty work. Who is to blame? The teachers of the young people, of course, for they have spread the idea that under Communism some day there will be no need for physical labor.

All is not rosy in the land of the Reds.

Breaking Tradition

Women—British women, that is—made another long stride toward equality the other day when the House of Lords approved a first formal reading of a bill allowing females to take seats in their staid chambers. The Queen was given power to appoint 10 new peers every year whose titles could not be passed on to their heirs, and members of both sexes were made eligible. The ladies, in other words, can become Ladies—capital L—now.

Owen Lattimore Indicted By Grand Jury

7 Counts Of Perjury Charged

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted Owen Lattimore Tuesday on seven counts of perjury.

He was accused, among other things, of testifying falsely that he had never been "a sympathizer and promoter of Communism and Communist interests."

The charges against the Far Eastern specialist arise from his testimony before the Senate's internal security subcommittee last spring.

Lattimore, director of a school of international relations at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, was grilled by the senators for 12 days about Communist connections and what influence he wielded on America's postwar policy in the Far East.

"I am, of course, innocent," Lattimore said at the office of his attorney here, where he was informed of the indictment.

"That innocence should have to be so long defended against such vengeful harassment as I have been subjected to for three years is something that can better be commented on by others than by myself."

The Grand Jury, after going over the record of the Senate hearing with government prosecutors, charged that Lattimore lied about seven "material" matters. The jurors reported:

1. That he testified he had never supported Communism, whereas he "had been a sympathizer and promoted of Communism and Communist interests."

2. That he testified falsely he did not know until 1950 that Dr. Ch'ao Ting Chi was a Communist. Chi was a man Lattimore worked with at the Institute of Pacific Relations who was accused by the subcommittee of being a Red agent.

3. That he swore that he did not know until the late 1930s that a person who used the pen-name of "Asiaticus" was a Communist, knowing this testimony to be untrue. "Asiaticus" magazine Lattimore edited for the institute.

4. That he swore falsely that, aside from Russian contributions, he had never published articles in "Pacific Affairs," a magazine Lattimore edited for the institute.

5. That he testified he lunched in 1941 with a Soviet ambassador in Washington after Hitler's invasion of the Soviet Union, whereas the fact was that he met the ambassador before the invasion occurred and while Russia and Nazi Germany were still allies.

6. That he swore that he never handled the mail of Lauchlin Currie, an aide of the late President Roosevelt. The grand jury said there is evidence that he did so on occasions when Currie was away from Washington.

7. That he testified he visited the Chinese Communist headquarters at Yenan in 1937 without making any advance arrangements. The grand jury said this was untrue, in that in fact he did make advance arrangements.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has accused him of being the chief Soviet spy in the United States, a charge Lattimore has denied vigorously.

No trial date has been fixed for the university lecturer. Upon conviction, each count of the indictment carries a prison sentence of from two to 10 years.

Wheat Winter Kill Loss Seen As Not Heavy

Panhandle Situation Is Favorable

Nebraska's winter wheat went into the winter dormant stage in poor to fair condition in the eastern area and in good condition in the western area, the state-federal crop reporting service said in its weekly survey Tuesday.

"Soil is generally packed well around the crown and there should not be heavy loss from winter kill," the weekly report stated.

In the panhandle, a light snow occurred again over parts of the area and lack of wind resulted in it staying on the fields, adding to the already favorable moisture condition in the area. Elsewhere more moisture would be beneficial, although there is some fear by many farmers as to whether the wheat that did not germinate before moisture fell will come up when growing weather comes.

The report said there appears to be more than the usual number of farmers feeding small lots of cattle this year and during the past week there was considerable activity in picking up some calves for future feeding.

Conditions the past week were quite favorable for feeders in the care of livestock and most cattle are receiving a supplemental feeding of hay and some concentrate.

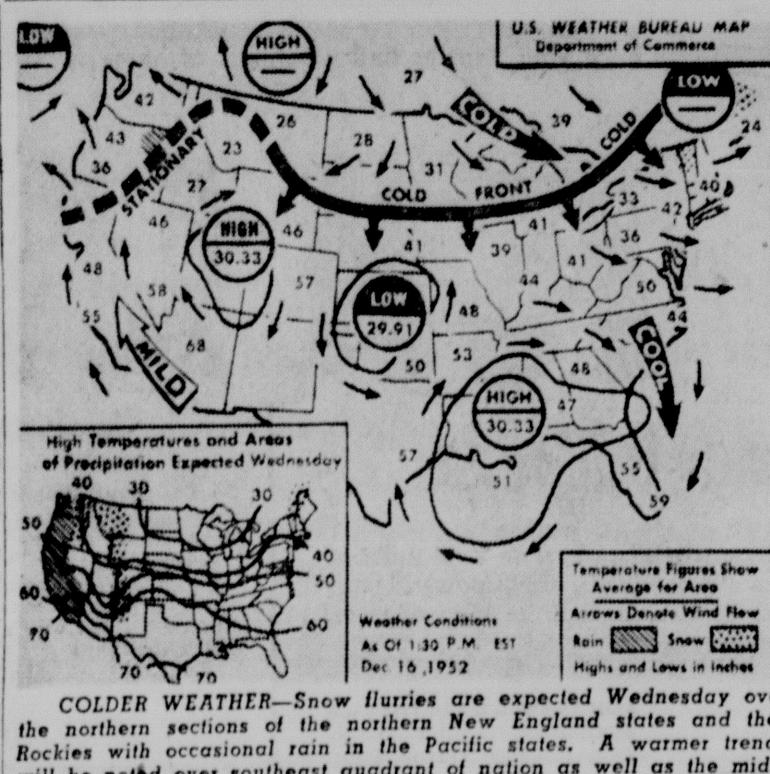

There are local areas where hay may be short in supply before the winter feeding season ends but for the most part the supply will be adequate for current needs.

The experts said lambs will be fed in Nebraska mostly in commercial lots as wheat pasture and other pasture feeds are limited and have supplied little grazing.

Farmers were reported showing more than the usual amount of interest in securing good seed for the spring grain crop. Corn shelling was rather active and there was some movement of the grain to market. Several farmers reported placing their alfalfa seed crop under government loan due to low prices.

Precipitation throughout the state for the week ending Monday day included:

Moulton Believes State Sales Tax Rather Inevitable

OMAHA (AP)—Nebraska eventually will get a sales tax, in the view of State Sen. William Moulton, Omaha.

"A state sales tax gets more support each session," Moulton told a meeting of school board members from Douglas County rural and village schools.

"If we don't get it this time, we'll get it eventually," he added. Moulton said he thought a sales tax would penalize many people unable to pay it and predicted the tax would not result in tax relief for property owners. States which have the tax have added it to other taxes, he said.

Blaze Damage Set At $85,000

BROKEN BOW, Neb. (AP)—Fire swept through a downtown Broken Bow building destroying a beer parlor, lunch counter, pool tables, coolers and storage place at Tom's Pastime.

The entire first floor of the brick building was burned out leaving only the walls standing and water ran into the basement damaging six bowling alleys.

This was the worst fire since the Golden Rule was burned in 1950 with a loss of $75,000.

Second New Span Over Missouri Opening

No Fanfare For Bridge At Bellevue

BELLEVUE, Neb. (AP) — The new G.A.R. Memorial bridge over the Missouri River at Bellevue is scheduled to be open to the public at 6 a.m. Wednesday, vice-chairman Harold Ludwig of the Bridge Commission said.

"There will be no fanfare," Ludwig added. "Adverse road conditions still exist."

He referred to the newly graded road on the Iowa side of the river that still has not been surfaced. Graveling is expected to start some time Wednesday. Graders have been tidying up the roadway, however, and autos will be permitted to use the route.

The road links the bridge with highway 275 in Iowa.

This is the second Missouri River toll bridge to be opened in less than a week. The Mormon Pioneer Memorial bridge at the north edge of Omaha was formally opened Sunday.

NJC President 'Encouraged' About Finances

OMAHA (AP) — Edwin Moran, Nebraska's price control chief, submitted his resignation Tuesday and plans to return to his private law practice in Nebraska City.

He took the post as Nebraska director of the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) March 19, 1951.

In a letter to M. A. Brooks, regional OPS director in Kansas City, Moran said:

"When I accepted the appointment as director of OPS in Nebraska, I suffered no illusion that the agency would receive any great ovation of public approval."

Served Public 14 Years

"I have completed about 14 years in public service positions. Several of these years have been in thankless and contentious positions necessary to be filled by someone; I now find it of much greater importance to my family and my own welfare that I return to my private practice of law in Nebraska City."

I wish to express my appreciation of the kind consideration given me, without exception, by the public, press and radio news service during the time I have been with the agency."

There was no immediate indication as to who might succeed Moran. The appointments come from the regional director in Kansas City.

Moran is a former Otoe County attorney. He headed the Omaha district Office of Price Administration (OPA) office in 1945 and 1946. As OPS director, he succeeded James Green, Omaha attorney who had taken the job on a temporary basis.

The session is one of five "grass root" sessions booked by the Kimball congressman. He was at Kearney Monday, Grand Island Tuesday, will be at Scottsbluff Thursday and Alliance Friday. He plans to return to Washington before Christmas.

House Committee's Report On Salt-Wahoo Project 'Outdated'

A House subcommittee's description of the Salt-Wahoo flood control project as an example of agency co-ordination "gone sour" brought a counter-charge Tuesday from a Salt-Wahoo Watershed Association co-chairman that the committee's report "is at least three months out of date."

Raymond A. McConnell Jr., Lincoln, admitted that joint planning of the Army Corps of Engineers and the Soil Conservation Service came to a standstill late in 1951, but declared the "slame duck committee" has failed to account for "a series of meetings between the two agencies which began in October"

"These meetings" were called by the Salt-Wahoo Association at the suggestion of the engineers, McConnell said in claiming local and district level agreement has been obtained between the two agencies as to a basis on which the engineering plans of the two agencies can be co-ordinated.

McConnell also charged the House Public Works subcommittee's report "is very much out of date with respect to its concept that flood control should begin at the bottom of the stream."

"Its recommendation that downstream flood control should be given priority over upstream flood control correlated with conservation reflects the pork-barrel philosophy which has dominated this committee at the expense of the taxpayers and to the detriment of well balanced overall flood planning beginning on the land."

McConnell explained that at a series of three-way meetings, the Association proposed as a guide that:

1. Protection and enhancement of agricultural values is the primary object and responsibility of the USDA, but the establishment of a watershed program also brings certain flood protection to urban and industrial areas.

2. Flood protection of urban and industrial areas is the primary concern and responsibility of the Engineers, but planning for such should take into account the protection of agricultural watershed resources provided by an agricultural watershed program.

Pfc. Henry E. Miller, son of Mrs. Irvin Miller, Blair, has been wounded; and Cpl. William C. Neely, brother of Robert T. Neely, Scottsbluff, has been injured.

Wahoo Flood Control Plan Outlined

By JOHN SWANSON
Star Staff Writer

WAHOO, Neb.—The tentative $4,468,000 flood control plan prepared by the Army Engineers for the Wahoo Creek Basin was officially opened to local reaction Tuesday.

In a public meeting, held in the district court room of Saunders County Courthouse, Col. H. S. Miller, district engineer of the Omaha District Corps of Engineers, outlined the control plan which includes two proposed dams, channel improvement and leveed floodways.

The Salt-Wahoo Watershed Association called the meeting which was attended by about 100. Generally those present reserved any expression of their opinions on the plan. Questions asked concerned details of proposed construction and finances.

Not Complete Control

Col. Miller said the plan as presented Tuesday does not carry the promise of complete flood protection. "It is," he said "the greatest protection which can be justified by the cost."

Included in the plan are two small dams over Sand and Duck Creeks north of Wahoo, channel improvement on Wahoo Creek and Channel improvement and a leveed floodway between Wahoo and Ashland.

In detailing the plan, Albert Bartos of the Omaha Engineer staff, said, "We are trying in the Wahoo Creek Basin to provide a base of development under which flooding should occur not more than once in 50 years."

Need Contributions

Officers of the Salt-Wahoo Association present were Raymond A. McConnell of Lincoln and Roland Nelson of Mead, co-chairmen. McConnell stated at the completion of the briefing that the association is in need of contributions to further its efforts to see a satisfactory plan put into operation.

The purpose of the meeting, McConnell said, was to acquaint persons in this locality with the proposed plan. He asked that the directors of the Salt-Wahoo Association be informed of individual opinions on the plan so they will know whether or not to recommend its approval by the governor.

Both Governor Peterson and Governor-elect Crosby have stated they would not approve any plan and road work. These expenses for the basin which was not in of "local co-operation," he said, turn approved by the directors of the association.

Jack Gardner of the Engineer staff said in answer to questions on finances that expenses borne locally in carrying out the plan would include providing rights-of-way for construction and bridge.

Wesleyan, Nebraska In Home-Court Games Tonight

Plainsmen Seeking Fifth Straight

Sterling Quintet Threatens Win Skein

NEBRASKA Wesleyan will attempt to make it victory number five in a row when the Plainsmen entertain the veteran Sterling (Kan.) College five on the Northeast High School maples tonight at 8 p.m.

Powered by ace point-gatherer Don Boldibuck, who has hit for an average of 23.5 per game in four starts, the Plainsmen will be seeing their first action since last Tuesday, when they dumped the highly regarded Maryville, (Mo.) State Teachers five, 53-49, on the Missouri floor.

Coach Harold "Os" Doenges will bring every member of the club which won 17 and lost 12 last season to Lincoln for tonight's encounter.

Six-foot, five-inch John Irwin and six-foot, three-inch Dick Moulton lend height to the visiting squad, which is paced points-wise by five-foot, 10-inch senior guard Charley Brown.

Coach John Grayson has spent the past week sharpening the offensive finesse of his veteran Wesleyan crew. The Plainsmen disclosed some rough spots in Willoughby their past two outings after apparently hitting an early season peak, although the Cornell of Iowa and Northwest Missouri contests were each against high-caliber competition.

Grayson indicated Tuesday that he would start the same five he has used in the initial four outings.

Fund Drive Status To Be Told Today

A definite announcement on Lincoln's baseball drive will emerge today from a noon meeting of the fund-raising committee at the Hotel Cornhusker.

The Western League has given Lincoln until Saturday to achieve a goal of $25,000, necessary to keep Sherman Field in the loop as an independent operation. At a last accounting of the community canvass Saturday, a total of $21,760 was reported.

Since then, pledges for shares ($10 each) have been coming in at a steady pace.

Even if the $25,000 is realized, the drive will probably not subside. More stocks will need to be sold to fulfill all of the expenses, which include such "start from scratch" items as $3,000 for uniforms and $2,500 more for balls and bats.

General Manager Bill Hayes estimates that spring training alone may cost as high as $10,000.

At present, the Philadelphia A's own everything at Sherman Field except the ball park itself.

Hayes is presently back east conferring with officials of the Detroit Tigers, Boston Braves and Washington Senators for playing talent. He will return to Lincoln, Jan. 4.

Since the A's no longer own Lincoln, a new nickname will be needed for the Sherman Field representative. Among the early handles suggested were "Solons," "Links," "Capitols" and "Senators."

Hayes has suggested that a contest may be staged among fans to name the team.

S.W. Missouri State Throttles Antelopes

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Kearney (Neb.) State Teachers College offered little resistance here Tuesday night as Southwest Missouri State romped home on the winning end of a 58-54 count.

The Antelopes failed to score until 7:42 had elapsed in the first quarter and went 12:10 before hitting from the field. The Bears led, 21-8, at the quarter and 47-20 at halftime and extended their lead in the remaining two periods as they coasted in.

Forrest Hamilton racked up 24 points for the visitors, followed by Don Anielak with 15. Darrell Lloyd's 12 points paced the Antelopes' effort.

SEWARD — A fourth-quarter rally led by Center Bernie Kluge fell short here Tuesday night as Sterling (Colo.) College defeated Concordia, 69-61.

Kluge poured in seven of his 26-point total during the fourth frame as the Bulldogs outscored the visitors, 14-11, after falling behind in each of the three preceding quarters.

Kluge's main assistance came from Vern Hass, who tallied 11 points and hit consistently. For the winners, Bob Frisbee poured in a rousing total of 32 points.

Let Lincoln lose Western school? Not on the life of Mr. Real Fan. As the committee began soliciting for stockholders, it soon became apparent that it was the little guy who simply was not going to let Sherman Field die a weedy death.

This is a much healthier situation, this wholesale representation of stockholders, than having 20 or 20 money men foot the whole bill. Now Sherman Field will be looked upon with both community and personal pride.

You will see the results at the box office.

MALCOLM — Panama switched from a zone to a pressing man-to-man defense in the second half to erase a big Malcolm lead, but fell, 67-61, as time ran out.

The host team stormed to leads of 21-8 and 35-19 at the quarter and half before the Panthers began to narrow the gap. Herb Ellers collected 17 points and Larry Ostermaier for Coach Ed Childress' victors.

But neither could match the 20-point total registered by Panama's Duane Mehrens, the outstanding player for the losers.

On A Job Well Done

ONE of the ills of baseball in Lincoln found a remedy last week.

The prescribing physician was the community drive to raise the necessary $25,000 to assure the Capital City of an independent franchise in the Western League.

Several salient facts emerged from this big push which mushroomed into a proud city-wide effort that spawned over a thousand stockholders in Sherman Field.

First factor was that the Lincoln Civic Baseball Association, which has always been looked upon as backbone of the sport in Lincoln, has only two members who really want to save the game when the chips are down.

They are President A. Q. Schummel and Secretary Arch Baley and not enough kind words can be said of these two gentlemen's efforts in regard to the $25,000 drive. They gave it the supreme effort and their contagious enthusiasm spread to the 35 committee members.

Aside from Mr. Schummel and Mr. Baley, that hard-working committee was composed entirely of non-members of the Lincoln Civic Baseball Association. They were not there for bows. They were there because they wanted to save baseball in Lincoln. And what a job they did!

General Manager Bill Hayes estimates that spring training alone may cost as high as $10,000.

At present, the Philadelphia A's own everything at Sherman Field except the ball park itself.

Hayes is presently back east conferring with officials of the Detroit Tigers, Boston Braves and Washington Senators for playing talent. He will return to Lincoln, Jan. 4.

Since the A's no longer own Lincoln, a new nickname will be needed for the Sherman Field representative.

From the name of A. L. "Pat" Minier, a hard-driving Irishman with seemingly limitless energy and inborn powers of organization. As one of the co-ordinators of the drive, Mr. Minier proved to The Firing Line that he'd be the man for any committee.

MADELY part of Lincoln's baseball ills might be traced to the fact that the LCBA, aside from two or three members, was interested only when a membership meant nothing more than a membership. Let the Philadelphia Athletics do all the worrying. We'll watch the games.

When the A's backed out of their Lincoln franchise and left Capital City baseball hanging high and dry, the LCBA seemed to shrink to Mr. Schummel and Mr. Baley. They stayed on the sinking ship while the other members seemed to disappear.

That very first public meeting between General Manager Bill Hayes and interested fans ended in a wave of pessimism and caustic comments on such matters as an "O" Street Sucker List.

"It doesn't look too good," Hayes told The Firing Line after the meeting. "If these are the people in Lincoln who are willing to pay for baseball, it looks bad."

What Hayes and all of us overlooked at the time was that the little people, the real fans had not yet been heard from. They are the people who buy one or two shares of stock at $10 a share.

Let Lincoln lose Western school? Not on the life of Mr. Real Fan. As the committee began soliciting for stockholders, it soon became apparent that it was the little guy who simply was not going to let Sherman Field die a weedy death.

This is a much healthier situation, this wholesale representation of stockholders, than having 20 or 20 money men foot the whole bill. Now Sherman Field will be looked upon with both community and personal pride.

Allie, Shantz Were Loop's Top Pitchers

Reynolds' Earned-Run
Mark Best Since 1946

NEW YORK (AP)—Righthander Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees and southpaw Bobby Shantz of the Philadelphia A's were the most effective American League pitchers in 1952 according to official statistics released Tuesday.

Reynolds, 33-year-old veteran of 10 major league seasons, took earned run honors with a 2.07 average. The strong arm hurler permitted only 56 earned tallies in 244 innings to compile the lowest ERA since Hal Newhouser's 1.94 in 1946.

Allie, with an identical 2.07 mark, was on top in the unofficial earned run lists computed by The Associated Press and released in October.

The Yankee ace also led the league in strikeouts with 160 and with Mike Garcia of Cleveland was the pace-setter in shutouts, each with six whitewashings.

Shantz, who at the moment is honorary chairman in a fund drive to assist in keeping Western League baseball in Lincoln, Neb., where he got his start in 1948, was first in games won with 24 and in winning percentage with .774.

The diminutive lefty, who received the circuit's most valuable player award, only lost seven games. Bobby was third in the earned run ratings with 2.48, a shade back of Garcia's 2.37 slate.

Cleveland's Bob Lemon came away with the most complete games, 28 and the most innings pitched, 310. Lemon won 22 games.

Early Wynn who captured 23 victories for the Indians, gave up the most bases on balls, 132, and was tagged for the most home runs, 23.

Art Houtteman of the Detroit Tigers lost 20 games to lead in that department. The hard-luck Bengal won eight games.

Behind Shantz in the earned run derby came Lemon with a 2.50 average, Joe Dobson of Chicago, 2.51, Billy Pierce, also of the White Sox, 2.58, Bob Poterfield, Washington, 2.73, Vic Raschi, New York, 2.78 and Washington's Connie Marrero, 2.89.

SD Mines Hands Chadron Loss No. 1

RAPID CITY — South Dakota Mines, defeated twice previously by Chadron State Teachers College, surprised the Eagles by clipping their wings, 66-57, here Tuesday night.

The loss broke a five-game Chadron win streak.

Jim Meyers' 17 points were good for Mines high-point honors, while Tom Stroud led Chadron with 14.

Mines led all the way, and kept a nine-point lead throughout most of the second half.

Marvin Zitek of Assumption spearheaded the losing attack with nine points.

Colds, Flu Strike Badger Gridders

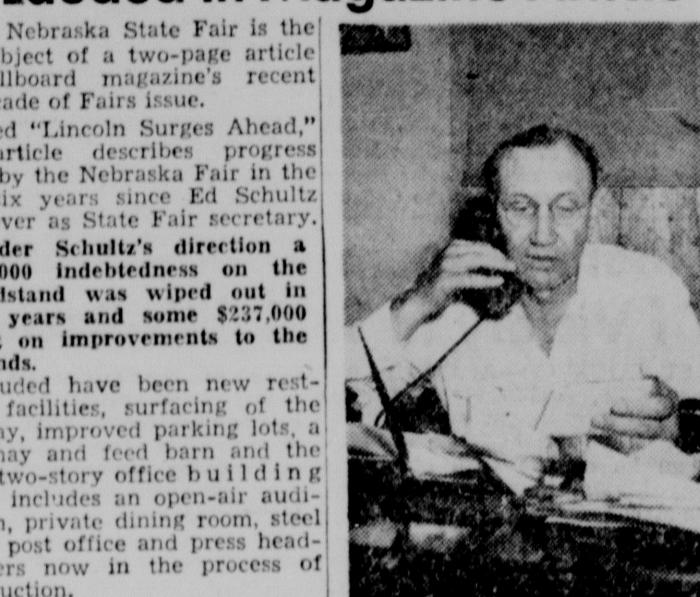

MADISON, Wis. (INS) — An outbreak of influenza and respiratory illness on the University of Wisconsin campus has hit three members of the Badgers' Rose Bowl-bound football team.

On the eve of the team's departure by plane for Pasadena, Calif., Guard Norm Amundsen was in the infirmary for treatment for tonsillitis. Suffering from bad colds were Guard Clarence Stensby and Halfback Tom Cannon.

A fourth player, Halfback Bill Hutchinsen, was in the infirmary for a knee injury incurred last Thursday. All four team members hope to be in shape to leave with the squad Wednesday morning.

Tuesday's final home drill for the Rose Bowl classic was held indoors and stressed running plays, especially wide flankers. The coaching staff termed it the best of the five workouts held in Madison prior to moving to Pasadena.

Nebraska State Fair Progress Is Lauded In Magazine Article

ED SCHULTZ — A keen aware-ness of ways in which the state can be served...

Fair attendance and receipts have jumped from 215,000 and $347,364 in 1946 to 279,000 and $534,381 this fall.

Schultz credits much of the increase to attention paid to grandstand attractions. Auto racing, absent from the State Fair scene for several years, was reinstated in 1946 with good results. Four days of IMCA-sanctioned racing last summer and fall drew some 75,-

000 race fans through the turnstiles.

A four-day rodeo in June and a

17-day horse-racing meeting with pari-mutuel betting in August are other facets of Schultz's plan to make as complete use as possible of the grandstand during the year.

An expansion of grandstand use is contemplated next year.

Tentative plans call for the addition of a program of motorcycle races on Tuesday, the third day of the fair.

The whole picture adds up not only sound financial planning but a progressive outlook indicative of a keen awareness of ways in which the people of the state can be served both entertainment-wise and through the addition of needed facilities.

Cassill's recommendation will go to the school administration and then, if approved, to the board of regents. The athletic director would say only that he did have a talk Monday with Odell and could not comment further until a recommendation is made and acted upon.

Odell came here from several years of success at Yale, arriving in 1948. Illness kept him inactive

the first season and his 1949 team was not outstanding. But in 1950

his Huskies compiled an 8-2 record, losing only to Notre Dame and California. After a poor 1951

season, this year's Odell club completed a 7-3 record, losing to Illinois, UCLA and USC.

In San Francisco, Odell will

West Shrine game. He makes his

THE GUMPS

ONE MAN'S OPINION By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

Friends who were expecting little gifts of soft coal from us for Christmas will have to take real diamonds as coal is up again in price.

The advance is not to be construed as having been "caused" by John Lewis' latest victory... It just resulted from it.

QUIRKS

PITTSBURGH—A wounded 100-pound buck deer treed Jay Heck, 14, for a half hour back of his home at nearby Natrona.

Jay and his dogs came on the young animal lying in the grass near his home. It apparently had been shot by a hunter.

The dogs attacked. The goaded deer sprang to its feet and made straight for Jay, who went up the nearest tree.

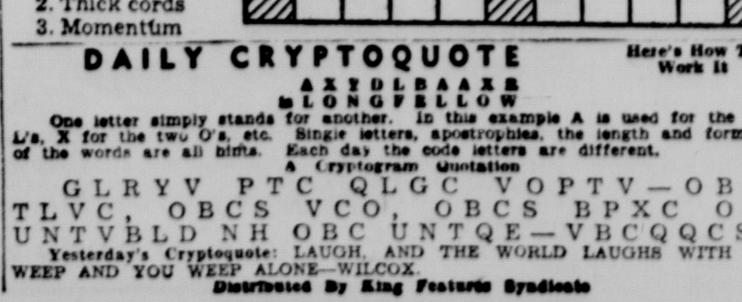

Jay yelled for help. His father phoned state police, who killed the deer.

But the good news is that the stabilization measures are once more solid and secure... This is what is known as the "Holland Plan."

It's borrowed from Holland where after the dike has busted and the land is flooded, they patch up the dike and it's good as new again.

It's borrowed from Holland where after the dike has busted and the land is flooded, they patch up the dike and it's good as new again.

We have been patching our stabilization dikes since they were built and they always are pronounced firm and solid after each major break.

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three X's for the two Q's, etc. Since letters are interchanged, the length and formation of the words are all alike. Each day the code letters are different.

$21,900,000 Military Records Center Is Authorized

OMAHA (P)—Brig. Gen. W. E. Potter, Missouri River Division Engineer, disclosed Tuesday he has received authorization to build a huge military personnel records center in St. Louis.

About $21,900,000 has been authorized for the project.

Designed to house the military personnel records of all military services, the center will be erected on a tract of about 40 acres. It will be a multi-story building of permanent masonry construction, probably under one roof.

Authorization to proceed came from the Chief of Engineers in Washington. The Kansas City District Engineer will supervise construction.

Bids probably will be asked next spring or early summer, General Potter said. Construction is expected to require about two years.

Christmas Is Speedy

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (INS)—Christmas got off to a fast start in Rochester Tuesday and the police were pretty unhappy about it.

A city court judge fined 28-year-old Raymond Christmas $25 for speeding.
